Symposium Description

The third Postgraduate Symposium on Linguacultural Spaces: Inclusion, Extension and Identification in Discourse and Society builds on the solid collaboration between academics at CeSLiC (Centre for Linguistic and Cultural Studies) at the Department of Modern Languages, University of Bologna (LILEC), the School of Critical Studies and the School of Modern Languages and Cultures (Language and Society Cluster), University of Glasgow, and the Department of Culture Studies, School of Humanities and Digital Sciences, Tilburg University. The current Symposium is an opportunity to enhance the collaboration between these four institutions, all with an active research culture in the sociolinguistics of diversity and inclusion.

However, based on a current trend supported by the Dutch Scientific Council (NWO), in this third symposium, we aim to attach a much wider meaning to the word 'inclusion'.

It is for this reason that Bo.Gla.Til. 2023 wishes to tackle Linguacultural Spaces from an interdisciplinary angle focusing primarily, yet not exclusively, on language. Therefore, we have invited postgraduate students from each institution to present work in progress in the area of diversity and inclusion from a sociolinguistic interdisciplinary perspective that aims at building empirically grounded bridges across different humanities-based disciplines and their respective methodological traditions.
